

Google Docs – Cursor Problem When Typing
11/2014

The issue below has been happening with some students in the elementary schools. Thanks to James Michels, one of our K-5 Tech's who found a solution.

When typing in Google docs the cursor sometimes appears in the middle of a letter and it creates confusion as to which letter the cursor is actually in front of.

It seems to happen when the students zoom in or out at any point.

The fix is to do CTRL+0 (that is a zero) which resets the zoom back to 100%
